Introduction

THE goal I set for this project is to list all of the books and authors mentioned throughout Ægypt, or The Solitudes, by chapter. A full bibliography for all items found is at the end of the document. If a chapter is missing below, then it did not have any books or authors mentioned within it. Books listed in bold are fictional works created by Crowley. The Authors Mentioned subsections list authors that were mentioned within a chapter but did not mention a particular book.

In most cases I tried to cite a work that would have been appropriate for the time frame of the story in which it is mentioned. In some cases, I have not been able to find a suitable edition and so cite a modern edition instead. Those will eventually be cleaned up to reflect either a copy of the work from the 16th century, one up to 1978, or one available to Crowley while he was writing.

This is probably the fourth or fifth version of this that I've done. The previous versions were for my the enjoyment of myself and a few others. This version I've tried to get as good as possible. I also made use of a BiBTeX file using the excellent Jabref application which I use in conjunction with TexMaker. (Earlier versions of this were entirely text or Markdown.)

I'm open to any ideas as to how this can be updated and expanded. For any corrections or comments the reader can email me directly at murfman@pm.me.

Special thanks goes to the guys within the #Books channel on The Miskatonic University Podcast Discord Server. You guys know who you are.

Ægypt Bibliography is an occasional blog regarding this project is available on Substack.

(This is still, and likely will remain, a work in progress.)

Part Ten – Regnum

Chapter 1

Authors Mentioned

- Jan Comenius
- Pythagoras¹

Books Mentioned

- Official guide book of the New York World's Fair, 1939 — Dr. Frank Monaghan(Monaghan)
- Reader's Digest — Various(Reader's Digest)
- Sonnet XXXI: With How Sad Steps — Sir Phillip Sidney(Sidney)²

JOHN CROWLEY, Endless Things, REGNUM-1

“Axel was one of those people who seem to have been born without a filter between brain-thought and tongue-thought: to be with him was to be set afloat or submerged in his tumbling stream of consciousness, where floated odd learning, famous names, the movie version of his own life and adventures, fragments of verse and song, injunctions, dreads, self-pity, antique piety, the catchphrases of a thousand years. With how sad steps O Moon thou climb'st the skies, he would say; rum, sodomy, and the lash; inter fœces et urinam nascimur, plangently in altar-boy pronunciation; Count Alucard? Why I don't believe that's a Transylvanian name.... He could often seem like other people when in public, but alone with you he overflowed those banks, and you fled or you followed...”

Chapter 2

JOHN CROWLEY, Endless Things, REGNUM-2

“Man, voyager on forking paths. There's no provision, though, for going back, is there, back over the thrown Y switches of our lives, the ones that shot our little handcar off its straight way and onto the way we took instead...no way to go back and fix the thing broken, or break the silence that later exploded.”

Authors Mentioned

- Pythagoras

Books Mentioned

- A Dictionary of Deities, Devils and Dæmons of Mankind — Alexis Payne de St. Phalle(St. Phalle)

¹Not mentioned by name, but instead as the second answer to the question “What is the Samian Letter, and after whom is it named?” The first answer being the letter ‘Υ’ or ‘Υ’.

²While technically neither a book, nor mentioned by name, Axel quotes the first line.

- Jan Gruter
- Tommaso Campanella

Books Mentioned

- Love's Labour's Lost — William Shakespeare(Shakespeare)
- Love's Labour's Won — William Shakespeare¹⁴
- The Merry Devil of Edmonton — Unknown(Abrams)¹⁵

³It is hard for me not to see this as a red Baedeker's Guidebook of some sort, probably Northern Italy.

⁴This has to be the book Crowley is thinking of even though Endless Things predates the publication (1979 vs. 1982). But a book "about Jesus faking his own execution and escaping to England, himself his own Grail, thence to Spain where he founded a royal line, his heirs still traceable today." has to be this.

⁵"...a long tract about fairies, and their world inside this one, and an endless winter they will turn at last to spring." this can only be Little, Big.

⁶I randomly chose the 1957 manual, this could be about right as prior to ten you would have a Webelos manual.

⁷Pierce mentions in The Solitudes that he went to "...Noate to study under Frank Walker Barr, a book of whose he had first read when he was eleven or twelve (was it Time's Body? or Mythos and Tyrannos? He couldn't remember..."

⁸Mentioned by Barr as "the so-called Hermetic Corpus."

⁹I'll look through the additional volumes of this, but I believe that volume 1 is the one Crowley is referencing. He was a little bit off on the pages, however, he says 196-225 but it is 185-200.

¹⁰Frances Yates tell Pierce that John Winthrop "used Dee's Monas as his personal sign." She is undoubtedly referring to the monad symbol itself, but because she says "Monas" with a capital I'm including the book.

¹¹In Regnum-6 when Pierce is remembering seeing Dame Yates from afar he mentions seeing her new book, The Rosicrucian Experiment as being her latest work. In fact this was published in 1971 and by the time of the story in 1979, she would have had a subsequent three books published.

¹²Oddly enough, Crowley here posits that the famous "Mr W.H." secretly paid for the publication of Sonnets without Shakespeare's knowledge. I am sure there is scholarship surrounding this statement that could be pulled back to an individual book, but that is beyond my realm of expertise.

¹³Mentioned as Jan Komensky.

JOHN CROWLEY, Endless Things, REGNUM-8

“Pierce had come to think that magic, and stories intended to work magic, were made just opposite of the way stories in literature are made. In the stories of world literature, at least as he knew them in his own reading, one particular couple with a particular fate will stand for all couples in the toils of love and loss and struggle; Boy Meets Girl, Boy Loses Girl, Boy Gets Girl, or doesn’t. But in magic, a general, universal couple—in alchemy the Sponsus and Sponsa, who near the end of the endless Work become pregnant with the Child who is the Stone—are at the same time each particular couple: they are Adam and Eve, Sun and Moon, Gold and Silver, Active and Passive, copper Venus and iron Mars, God and Mary, you and me, all of us at the work of generation. What they do is as though done by all, and the fruit of their union is for all to have, indeed all do have it just as soon as it’s made. If it ever is.”

¹⁴This is the famous lost play of Shakespeare that might have been a sequel to Love’s Labour’s Lost.

¹⁵This has at times been attributed to Shakespeare but is now considered to be a part of the Shakespeare Apocrypha.

¹⁶This play didn’t come out until 1624 while this chapter of Endless seems to be more concerned with describing court life at the beginning of Frederick V’s and his wife Elizabeth Stuart’s brief reign as King and Queen of Bohemia from 1619-1620. Also, the play itself has a satirical character obviously based on Elizabeth’s father, King James I and VI and therefore seems an odd choice for her to have enjoyed.

¹⁷It seems only appropriate to use Crowley’s own version of The Chemical Wedding.

¹⁸While not explicitly mentioned, the plot of The Chemical Wedding is the continued subject of Chapter 8.

Chapter 3

GIORDANO BRUNO, The Cabala of Pegasus, REGNUM-8

“The ideal Ass is the productive, formative, and supranaturally perfecting principle of the asinine species, which, however much it is distinguished in the capacious bosom of nature from other species, nonetheless—and this is of the greatest importance—is, in the First Mind, not other than the type of all intelligences, dæmons, gods, worlds, and the universe; the type from which not only asses but men, stars, worlds, and beings all depend: in it there is no difference of subject or form, of thing or things; it is simple and one.”

Authors Mentioned

- Giordano Bruno²²
- Alexander Dicson
- Aristotle
- Pythagoras

Books Mentioned

- The Golden Ass — Apuleis(Apuleius)²³
- The Cabala of Pegasus — Giordano Bruno(Bruno)²⁴
- The Transformations of Ass Onorius, the Cabalistical

²¹I'm including this because much of this chapter seem to have been pulled from this book.

²²Bruno is an ass here, not yet reformed to a man, he remains unnamed but himself.

²³Bruno as an ass is remembering a tale about an ass, this is the obvious choice.

²⁴Bruno as an ass thinks (remembers?) a quote from his own book, see box.

- Steed — Unknown(Unknown)²⁵
 • The Candlemaker — Giordano Bruno(Bruno)²⁶

Tom Tom the Piper's Son

*Tom he was a piperes sonne
 He stole a pipe and awaye he ronne
 And the onlie tune that hee could play
 Was Over the hills and farre away.
 Over the hills and a grete way off
 The wind shall blow my topknot off.²⁷*

Authors Mentioned

- Edward Kelley
- Philip à Gabella
- Vilém Slavata of Chlum

Books Mentioned

- A Game at Chess — Thomas Middleton(Middleton)
- Doctor Faustus — Christopher Marlowe(Marlowe)
- The Expulsion of the Triumphant Beast — Giordano

²⁵This is a play on the name of Apuleius' work and Bruno's Pegasus perhaps?

²⁶Mentioned in the original Italian as Il Candelaio.

²⁷Surprisingly, this seems to have been an actual error on Crowley's part. This rhyme and tune doesn't seem to have existed prior to 1795. After further thought, this was likely an error made by Fellowes Kraft, with Crowley's full knowledge of its errancy.

²⁸Mentioned as Isak Kohen.

²⁹Bruno met with Mordente in Prague in 1584 and used his proportional eight-pointed compass to refute Aristotle's hypothesis on the incommensurability of infinitesimals in Figuratio Aristotelici Physici Auditus (Bruno).

³⁰Mentioned as "Raimundus Lullus". Llull's ideas inspired Bruno 300 years later to develop a philosophical theory explaining the interconnectiveness of all things.

³¹The author of the second of the three main Rosicrucian manifestos, Secretioris Philosophiae Consideratio Brevis, of whom nothing more is really known. Also, the only Rosicrucian manifesto written in Latin. This is the identity of Bruno as Ass-no-longer after he reforms himself into a man.

³²Where Mephistopheles the black poodle is actually an ass.

- Tycho Brahe

JAN COMENIUS, The Bequest of the Dying Mother of the Unity of the Brethren, BENEFACIA-6

“When the wrath of the nations has passed, the rule of thy country will return to thee, O Czech people.”

Authors Mentioned

- Giordano Bruno
- John Dee³⁶
- René Descartes
- Ausonius
- Pythagoras
- Tycho Brahe
- Johannes Kepler
- Jan Gruter
- Frances Yates
- Jan Comenius³⁷
- Oswald Croll

Books Mentioned

- The Expulsion of the Triumphant Beast — Giordano Bruno(Bruno)³⁸
- The Palsgrave's Holiday — Unknown(Deß Pfaltzgrafen Urlaub)³⁹
- The Bequest of the Dying Mother of the Unity of Brethren — Jan Comenius(Comenius)⁴⁰
- Labyrinth of the World and Paradise of the Heart — Jan Comenius(Comenius)
- The Chemical Wedding by Christian Rosencreutz : A Romance in Eight Days — Johann Valentin Andreæ(Andreæ)
- Principia Philosophia — René Descartes(Descartes)
- Orbis Sensualium Pictis — Jan Comenius(Comenius)

³³Mentioned in the text as Andreas Boethius de Boodt.

³⁴This appears to be a fictitious play that was likely created by Bruno as à Gabella within the reality of Kraft's final novel.

³⁵See Above.

³⁶This is by inference only as that “Englishman, the empty house, and the man himself old and empty too it seemed. . .” This is also where Bruno gets the idea that since Dee gave up magic for a new reality in the “real world” then he would do so also in his world, which is really just a figment of Kraft's imagination.

³⁷Mentioned as Jan Andreas Comenius

³⁸It is mentioned in the text here as “The Triumphant Beast Thrown Out”, I imagine to more fully separate the possible reality of Kraft's final novel, and what actually happens.

³⁹Mentioned only in context, this is the political cartoon that shows the Winter King with his stocking fallen down his knee, denoting he has lost his garter. A “garter” was a word that also referred to a man's in-laws, so in this case tells us that the Winter King went to his father-in-law, James I and VI of England for help, but was ignored.

⁴⁰Sometimes shortened to simply The Bequest of the Brethren of Unity, this is regarded as a sacred text amongst Czechs. A more complete quote is from the 1940 translation by Martin Spiner: “I trust God that after the passing of the storm of wrath which our sins brought down upon our heads, the rule of thine affairs shall again be restored to thee, O Czech people!”

Against Quarreling and Fighting

*LET dogs delight to bark and bite,
For God hath made them so;
Let bears and lions growl and fight,
For 'tis their nature too.*

*But, children, you should never let
Such angry passions rise;
Your little hands were never made
To tear each other's eyes.*

*Let love thro all your actions run,
And all your words be mild;
Live like the blessed Virgin's son,
That sweet and lovely child.*

*His soul was gentle as a lamb;
And as his stature grew,
He grew in favour both with man,
And God his father too.*

*Now, Lord of all, he reigns above,
And from his heav'nly throne
He sees what children dwell in love,
And marks them for his own.*

— Isaac Watts(Watts)

Chapter 4

RASMUSSEN COUSIN, A Midsummer Night's Dream, REGNUM-8

MICHEL DE MONTAIGNE, Of Physiognomy, REGNUM-8

“If you do not know how to die never trouble yourself, Montaigne ſaid. Nature will fully and ſufficiently inſtruct you; ſhe will do all that part for you; take you no care for it. Maybe not, not theſe days.”

Authors Mentioned

- Fellowes Kraft
- Earl Sacrobosco⁴²

Books Mentioned

- The Golden Ass of Lucius Apuleis — Apuleis(Apuleius, William Adlington, and A. S. Kline)
- Essays of Michel de Montaigne — Michel de Montaigne(Michel de Montaigne)⁴³

⁴²The name is purposefully misremembered in Carcer-6: “You know we never got a letter from the dean of Barnabas College. A Dr. Santobosco?”

⁴³I personally have this version of the Montaigne within my personal library. It should be mentioned that while I believe tha this to be the correct translation, it is slightly off in comparison at the end. The Cotton translation reads, “If you know not how to die, never trouble yourself; nature will, at the time, fully and sufficiently instruct you; she will exactly do that business for you; take no care.”(Michel de Montaigne, 389)

- Time's Body — Frank Walker Barr(Barr)
- New York Times Magazine —
- Fidelio — Ludwig von Beethoven(Beethoven)
- Ars magna lucis et umbrae — Athanasius Kircher(Kircher)

⁴⁴As far as I can determine this is a reference to a fictitious scholar. J. Kaye is referenced as positing “a principle in history that might be called the Law of Conservation of Meaning...” This seems to be Crowley creating a pastiche of different ideas in order to fit them within the Gnostic framework that he has already established for the world of Ægypt. As such, the meaning of that world hasn't changed, just the lens through which we perceive it has.

Chapter 10

PIERCE TO ROSIE, Endless Things, CARCER-10

““Why did he write it that way? If it takes so long to understand.”

“Mercy,” Pierce said. “I think.”

“Mercy?”

Mercy. Kraft knew that endings, all endings, trap characters in completions, and he wanted not to bind them but to free them. Not merely to end their stories in freedom, in the way that stories often do end, as several even of Kraft’s own earlier books had ended—a door opens, dawn breaks, the road unrolls ahead, The End—but never to end them at all.

Mercy. Because there is an end to justice and to fairness, when everything is paid out, and all accounts are settled: but there’s no end to mercy.”

- The Hylozoist — Hurd Hope Welkin(Welkin)
- Battle Book — Hurd Hope Welkin(Welkin)
- On the Origin of Species by Means of Natural Selection — Charles Darwin(Darwin)

⁴⁵This one may be a stretch, but the Trappist monk that Pierce talks to in this chapter feels a lot like Merton, even though he was dead almost twenty years by this time within the story.

⁴⁶Mentioned only in Pierce’s recollection of the following quote leaving the strip club, which is almost verbatim from an updated Adlinton translation of The Golden Ass. “And when thou descendest to Hell, where thou shalt see me shine in that subterrene place, shining (as thou see’st me now) in the darkness of Acheron, and raining in the deep profundity of Styx, thou shalt worship me, as one that hath been favourable to thee.”

⁴⁷This is again Crowley playing with us by creating a textbook about clouds that is aptly named after a line from Shelley’s poem The Cloud(Shelley)

⁴⁸This is another cheeky reference from Crowley. This time calling a textbook about geologic formations after a famous line from G.K. Chesterton’s The Napoleon of Nottinghill, which was ironically used to describe the beauty of the urban landscape of London.(Chesterton)
