A Bibliography of Ægypt by John Crowley

Compiled by Brian Murphy

September 10, 2024

Introduction

The goal is to list all of the books and authors mentioned throughout Ægypt, or The Solitudes, by chapter. A complete list of those authors are listed at the end in alphabetical order by the first name. If a chapter is missing below, then it likely did not have any books or authors mentioned within it. Books listed in bold are fictional works created by Crowley, at least to the best of my estimation. The Authors Mentioned subsections list authors that were mentioned within a chapter but did not mention a particular book.

In most cases I tried to cite a work that would have been appropriate for the timeframe of the story in which it is mentioned. In some cases, I have not been able to find a suitable edition and so cite a modern edition instead. Those will eventually be cleaned up to reflect either a copy of the work from the 16th century, one up to 1978, or one available to Crowley while he was writing.

Future updates will likely provide citations for when a particular author is mentioned within the text. I'm not likely to do this any time soon, however. Eventually, I will add in subsequent books in the series, but I'm in no real hurry to do so. This was purely a fun side-project that got my head away from "Real Life" for a time.

I'm open to any ideas as to how this can be updated and expanded. For any corrections or comments the reader can email me directly at murfman@pm.me.

Special Thanks goes to the guys within the #Books channel on The Miskatonic University Podcast Discord Server. You guys know who you are.

(This is still, and likely will remain, a work in progress.)

Author's Note

Books Mentioned:

- Walter Scott. Hermetica.

Joseph Campbell, Elizabeth L. Eisenstein, Mircea Eliade, Peter French, Hans Jonas, Frank E. & Fritz P. Manuel, Giorgio di Santillana, Stephen Schoenbaum, Wayne Shumaker, Keith Thomas, Lynn Thorndike, D. P. Walker, Dame Francis Yates, John Mitchell, Katerine Maltwood, Robert Graves, Lois Rose, Richard Deacon, Walter Scott, Luis de Góngora.

The Prologue on Earth

Books Mentioned:

- Bruno, Giordano. De monade, numero et figura. 1961.

Vita

One

Books Mentioned:

- De Góngora Y Argote, Luis. The Solitudes of Luis De Góngora. 1968.

Authors Mentioned:

Peter Ramus

Two

Books Mentioned:

- Kraft, Fellowes. *Darkling Plain.
- Burnett, Frances Hodgson, and Sue Ullstein. The Secret Garden. Longman Publishing Group, 1975.

- Norton, Mary. *The Borrowers Abroad.[1]
- Kraft, Fellowes. *Under Saturn, A Novel of Wallenstein.[2]
- Kraft, Fellowes. *Bitten Apples.

Three

Books Mentioned:

- De Góngora Y Argote, Luis. The Solitudes of Luis De Góngora. 1968.[3]

Authors Mentioned:

Lady Mary Wortley Montagu, Luis de Góngora, Percy Bysshe Shelley.

Four

Books Mentioned:

- Barr, Frank Walker. Time's Body.
- Barr, Frank Walker. *Mythos and Tyrannos.
- Seven Sobs of a Sorrowful Soule for Sinne. 1597.
- Shakespeare, William. Measure for Measure. Cambridge UP, 2006.

Five

Books Mentioned:

- Virgil. Virgil's Eclogues. University of Pennsylvania Press. 2011.[5]
- Dante. Divine Comedy. Modern Library. 1950.

[1]There is no novel by Norton titled The Borrowers Abroad. This may have been deliberate by Crowley, or an accident, since all of the books are named in a similar pattern (i.e. The Borrowers Afield, The Borrowers Afloat, The Borrowers Afield, The Borrowers Avenged. More research could be done to see if this was a proposed title of another book in the series, or if this was a subtle way to shift the book away from the reality, or history in this case, that we experience as the reader.)

[2]Seems to be based on the biography of Wallenstein: Watson, Francis. Wallenstein, Soldier Under Saturn. 1969.

[3]Crowley quotes Cunningham's translation of the First Solitude lines 94-96 and then 108-111, then 112-116. Then he switches to the original Spanish for pieces of lines 113-114, and then again the Spainish for lines 119-121.

[4]I am assuming the 1939 edition since Pierce mentions bringing several volumes of this fictitious version with him to Blackberry Jams.

[5]Line 6, "Iam redit et Virgo, redeunt Saturnia regna" "The virgin reappears and Saturn reigns" https://la.wikisource.org/wiki/Eclogae_vel_bucolica/Ecloga_IV.

Authors Mentioned:

Homer, Sophocles, Dante, Shakespeare, Cervantes.

Four

Books Mentioned:

- Mead, G.R.S. Thrice-greatest Hermes. London and Benares. 1906.
- Beeson, Charles H. "A History of Magic and Experimental Science During the First Thirteen Centuries of Our Era. Lynn Thorndyke." Classical Philology, vol. 20, no. 2, Apr. 1925, pp. 163–67. https://doi.org/10.1086/360664.
- Bruno, Giordano. Opera Omnia. 1854.
- —. Jordani Bruni Opera Latine Conscripta. 1962.

[8]Crowley describes "Talbot's" aka Edward Kelley's manuscript as ". . . a manuscript on thick parchment, narrow and sewn up with heavy greased black thread. There was no cover or binding. The characters it was written in started immediately at the top of the first page without any heading, as though this were perhaps not the first page at all. Doctor Dee picked up the lamp and bent close over the page. Mr. Talbot turned the heavy worm-holed leaf. The second page was the same: a solid block of characters from top to bottom. It is in a cipher, the doctor said. I can read a cipher, if it hides a language that I know."

Authors Mentioned:

Giordano Bruno, Copernicus, Galileo Galilei, Thomas Aquinas, Dante, Aristotle, Hermes Trismegistus, Cicero, Lactantius, Plato, Virgil, Pythagoras, Plotinus, Jean-François Champollion, E. A. Wallis Budge. Margaret Mead, Aleister Crowley, Martin del Rio "Delrio," Johannes Kepler, René Descartes, Francis Bacon, Isaac Newton, Proclus, Iamblichus, Paracelsus.

Five

Books Mentioned:

- Kraft, Fellowes. *The Court of Silk and Blood.
- —. *A Passage at Arms.
- Unnamed Nancy Drew Mystery Stories novel.
- Unnamed Mr. Moto novel by John P. Marquand.

Authors Mentioned:

Giordano Bruno, Agrippa (unsure which one), Gerolamo Cardano, John Galsworthy.

Six

Books Mentioned:

- TV Guide.
- Faraway Crier.
- Kraft, Fellowes. *Sit Down, Sorrow.[9]

Seven

Books Mentioned:

- Seneschal, Jean Le, and Gaston Raynaud. Les Cent Ballades : Poème Du XIVE Siècle. 1905, p221.
- The Eighteenth Brumaire of Louis Bonaparte, Charles H. Kerr, Chicago, 1907.[10]
- Phaeton's Car.[11]
- Worlds in Division.
- Dawn of the Druids.

[9] A memoir of Fellowes Kraft.

[10] "Hegel says somewhere that all great historic facts and personages recur twice. He forgot to add:"Once as tragedy, and again as farce." Caussidiere for Danton, Louis Blanc for Robespierre, the "Mountain" of 1848-51 for the "Mountain" of 1793-95, the Nephew for the Uncle. The identical caricature marks also the conditions under which the second edition of the eighteenth Brumaire is issued."

[11] Fictitious book whose name is apparently a play on a line from Francis Bacon's Of Vicissitude of Things "Phaeton's car went but a day: and the three years drought in the time of Elias, was but particular, and left people alive." Para. 60. Phaeton's Car is apparently a fictional renaming of The Chariot of the Gods (Von Däniken, Erich. Chariots of the Gods?: Unsolved Mysteries of the Past. 1973.)

Authors Mentioned:

Karl Marx.

Eight

Books Mentioned:

- Lanier, Sidney and Wyeth, N. C., Illustrator. The Boy's King Arthur. Scribner's Illustrated Classics. Sir Thomas Malory's History of King Arthur and His Knights of the Round Table. Charles Scribner's Sons. 1937.
- Briggs, Austin. Flash Gordon. 1940-1948.

Authors Mentioned:

Rablelais.

Two

Books Mentioned:

- New York Times.
- Phaeton's Car.[12]
- Niblick, Helen. *The Way's Far Turning.
- Kraft, Fellowes. *The Book of a Hundred Chapters.
- Dictionary of National Biography. 1961.
- Benians, Ernest Alfred. The Cambridge Modern History. Cambridge : UP, 1907.
- Herbermann, Charles George. The Catholic Encyclopedia: An International Work of Reference on the Constitution, Doctrine, Discipline, and History of the Catholic Church. 1908.
- Barr, Frank Walker. Unnamed collected works of histories.
- Unnamed Bible.
- Stedman, Joseph F. My Sunday Missal: Using New Translation From New Testament and a Simplified Method of Following Mass With an Explanation Before Each Mass of Its Theme. Confraternity of the Precious Blood, 1961.[13]
- Shakespeare, William. Unknown volumes of the Yale Shakespeare.

[12]Fictitious book apparently a play on Francis Bacon's Of Vicissitude of Things "Phaeton's car went but a day: and the three years drought in the time of Elias, was but particular, and left people alive." Para. 60. Phaeton's Car is apparently a fictional renaming of The Chariot of the Gods (Von Däniken, Erich. Chariots of the Gods?: Unsolved Mysteries of the Past. 1973.)

[13]Title given in Aegypt is Our Sunday Missal which could have been a misremembering of Crowley's part, or another slight alteration of the book's world from our own. Either way, this is the closest thing I can see Pierce having on his shelf.

- Dee, John. Monas hieroglyphica. Antwerp, 1564.
- Thorndike, Lynn. Four Unnamed Volumes.[14]
- Sacrobosco, Earl. *Unnamed Astronomy Textbook.
- Lewis, Charlton T. Lewis and Short Latin Dictionary. 1966.

- Unknown Big Shakespeare.
- Unknown Big Bible.
- Murphy, John and et. al. The Holy Bible : translated from the Latin Vulgate: ... University of Toronto, 1914.[18]

Authors Mentioned:

Norton, Norris, Nofzinger, Mackenzie, Macauley, Macdonald, Ross Lockbridge, Joseph Lincoln, Shellabarger, Costain, Milton.

Three

Books Mentioned:

- Kraft, Fellowes. *Bruno's Journey[19]
- —. *Under Saturn.
- —. *Darkling Plain.
- Fludd, Robert. Unnamed book.[20]

[14]While the four volumes are not mentioned by name, we can make some guesses as to which they are since they are a part of the "secondary sources" mentioned for Pierce's novel. (i.e. The Place of Magic in the Intellectual History of Europe, The History of Medieval Europe, up to any four of the eight volumes of the History of Magic and Experimental Science, Check-list of Rotographs in the History of Natural and Occult Sciences, The Sphere of Sacrobosco and its Commentators,, etc.).

[15]While this is not named outright and is simply referred to as "a dictionary of angels" it is by far the most famous published prior to the 1980s and is likely the one Crowley was referring to.

[16]There are a few possibilities here as to what this books could have been. I'm simply going to list the most likely candidates here: "The Book of Clocks" by David Thompson (1971), "Clocks and Watches" by Eric Bruton (1973), "The Art of the Clockmaker" by Tardy (early 1970s), "The Lore of the Clock" by G. H. Baillie (1973).

[17]The Encyclopedia Britannica became the first encyclopedia to undergo continual revisions in 1933. Crowley mentions "Several volumes of the 1939 edition" in this chapter, but there was not a specific edition published that year and as such it is impossible to easily tell what volumes of the 1933 14th revised edition were reprinted during 1939 specifically. Again this could be either intentional by Crowley subtly showing the differences between our world and the book's, or he simply could have chosen a date. Personally, I think it is likely the former.

[18]The Douay-Rheims Bible, sometimes known simply as the Douai Bible was a translation from the Latin Vulgate completed by the English College, Douai in 1582 & 1609.

[19]This was Kraft's first book.

[20]This can only mean Fludd's Utriusque Cosmi, however, there were no publications in English prior to the late 20th century. I believe it is instead referring to Paracelsus' The Hermetic and Alchemical Writings of Aureolus Philippus Theophrastus Bombast, but there will never be a way to tell for certain.)

Authors Mentioned:

Marsilio Ficino, Robert Fludd.

Four

Books Mentioned:

- "Death's dream kingdom". Unknown Poem.[21]
- Picatrix: Das Ziel des Weisen von Pseudo-Magriti, aus dem Arabischen ins Deutsche übersetzt von Hellmut Ritter und Martin Plessner [Picatrix: The Goal of the Wise Man by Pseudo-Magriti, translated from Arabic into German by Ritter and Plessner]. London: Warburg Institute, 1962
- Kraft, Fellowes. *Unfinished Final Novel.

Five

Books Mentioned:

- Thomas, Saint. The "Summa Theologica" of St. Thomas Aquinas. 1917.
- Magus, Saint Albertus. Commentaries on The "Summa Theologica".

- al-Hakīm, Ghāyat. Picatrix.

Authors Mentioned:

Cicero, Quintilian, St. Albertus Magus, St. Thomas Aquinas, Aristotle, St. Jerome, St. Ambrose, Augustine of Hippo, Lactantias, Horapollo.

Six

Books Mentioned:

- Unnamed Children's Book.[23]

[21]This must refer to T. S. Eliot's "The Hollow Men" from Poems, 1909–1925 (Faber & Faber Limited, 1925).

[22]I have no idea what this is referring to.

[23]I spent way too much time trying to track this book down. As best I can tell, there is no surviving children's "book about the family of mice who go traveling in a balloon" that was published in 1978 or before.

Seven

Books Mentioned:

- Psalms 87 / Hebrew - English Bible / Mechon-Mamre. mechon-mamre.org/p/pt/pt2687.htm.
- Ficcino, Marsilio. Pimander. 1543.[24]

Authors Mentioned:

- Euripides

[35]There are a few possibilities here as to what this books could have been. I'm simply going to list the most likely candidates here: "The Book of Clocks" by David Thompson (1971), "Clocks and Watches" by Eric Bruton (1973), "The Art of the Clockmaker" by Tardy (early 1970s), "The Lore of the Clock" by G. H. Baillie (1973).

[36]I spent way too much time trying to track this book down. As best I can tell, there is no surviving children's "book about the family of mice who go traveling in a balloon" that was published in 1978 or before.

[37]I am assuming the 1939 edition since Pierce mentions bringing several volumes of this fictitious version with him to Blackberry Jams.

[38]The Encyclopedia Britannica became the first encyclopedia to undergo continual revisions in 1933. Crowley mentions "Several volumes of the 1939 edition" in this chapter, but there was not a specific edition published that year and as such it is impossible to easily tell what volumes of the 1933 14th edition were reprinted during 1939 specifically. Again this could be either intentional by Crowley subtly showing the differences between our world and the book's, or he simply could have chosen a date. Personally, I think it is likely the former.
